

Code of Conduct & Behavior Policy

Stem for You LLC, doing business as STEM4U ("STEM4U," "we," "us," "our")
21690 Red Rum Dr #182, Ashburn, VA 20147

STEM4U is a shared workshop with real tools and real teams. To keep every participant safe and every session productive, we ask participants and families to agree to the following expectations.

What we expect of participants

- Follow all safety rules and staff instructions at all times.
- Treat teammates, staff, equipment, and the facility with respect.
- Use tools, machines, and materials only as directed and only with permission.
- No bullying, harassment, discrimination, threats, or violence of any kind.
- No weapons, alcohol, drugs, vaping, or tobacco on STEM4U premises or at STEM4U events.
- Stay in supervised areas and help clean up your workspace.

Safety is non-negotiable

Because our activities involve tools and machinery, a participant who ignores safety rules or staff instructions may be removed from an activity for that day, for their safety and the safety of others.

Discipline & dismissal

We use a supportive, age-appropriate approach — redirection, a short break, or a conversation with the family. Serious or repeated conduct problems, including unsafe behavior, harm or threats to others, damage to property, or conduct that disrupts the program, may result in suspension or permanent dismissal from STEM4U, at STEM4U's discretion.

No refund on dismissal

If a participant is suspended or dismissed for conduct reasons, tuition already billed is non-refundable, and no credit is issued for the remainder of the billing period. This does not limit any other remedy available to STEM4U.

Damage to property

Families are responsible for the cost to repair or replace STEM4U tools, equipment, or facility damaged by a participant's willful misconduct or failure to follow instructions.

Transportation

STEM4U does not provide transportation to or from programs, competitions, or events. Families are responsible for arranging their own transportation and for supervising their child during travel to and from STEM4U activities.
