

Biodiversity — Judging Talking Points

FLL BIOGLOW · one card per teammate · build the ecosystem from the ground up

1 Lydia · Overall — the opener

Biodiversity means all the different living things in one place — from tiny bacteria to big animals — and how they all depend on each other. The more variety, the healthier the ecosystem. We'll build it from the ground up.

→ Let's start at the very bottom...

2 Chansy · Bacteria & Soil

Microbes are everywhere, even if we can't see them. They break down dead plants and animals into nutrients — that's what turns plain dirt into living soil. Soil is the skin of the Earth; everything grows from it.

→ And that's where the next layer takes hold...

3 Krishiv · Roots & Fungi

Roots drink up water and hold the soil in place. Underground they partner with fungi — a hidden network that lets plants share nutrients and even 'warn' each other. People call it the 'wood wide web.'

→ All of this supports...

4 Iraj · Plants

Plants are the producers — they turn sunlight into food and give off the oxygen we breathe. They feed and shelter almost everything above the soil.

→ And plants bring in...

5 Ishaani · Animals & Birds

Animals and birds eat plants and each other, spread seeds far and wide, and keep every population in balance. Healthy animals mean a healthy ecosystem.

→ And one of their most important jobs leads to...

6 Shaurya · Pollen

Bees, butterflies, and birds carry pollen flower to flower so plants can make seeds and fruit — about one in three bites of our food depends on pollinators.

→ So what happens if we lose any of this?

7 Devansh · Ending

Every layer holds up the next, like a tower. Damage even ONE and the whole web can collapse — and species go EXTINCT. Protecting biodiversity means protecting every layer, from the smallest bacteria up.

→ Thank you — we're Team _____!

How to deliver it: everyone speaks · hand off to the next teammate on the orange → cue line (with eye contact) · hold up a prop or drawing for your layer · speak slowly and smile · finish together with your team name.
